DEPARTMENT OF GAME & FISH

TO: Field Operations Staff

FROM: Colonel Robert Griego

DATE: October 25, 2013

RE: Tagging Regulation & Requirements

With the seasons in full swing, we now have some real life punch and carcass tag cases to learn from. All officers are doing a fine job thus far and are to be commended. We do want officers to realize there is a new process to obtain the hunting license and the old "carcass tag" tagging requirements has changed. Any change causes confusion for our hunters and the "new" processes sometimes requires a learning curve, without exception this year's big change is what to do after the animal is reduced to possession.

There has always been a license or "tag" requirement after a big game animal or turkey is harvested. Now the hunter has to punch or black out immediately after the harvest. Then once they arrive at the vehicle, camp, or place of storage they must fill out the license with proper date and time of kill.

In previous years the license holder had to attach the carcass tag to the animal immediately upon arriving at a vehicle, camp, or a place of storage. This system is still basically in place, but the tag does not necessarily have to be "attached" you will now see the word "accompanied" as well. It now states that the properly marked license "shall be attached or accompany the carcass while the carcass is left unattended," does not necessarily have to be attached to the carcass. If a hunter pulls up to your roadblock with a properly punched and filled in license in his pocket and the deer is present all is well. The two items are accompanied.

The rule itself is now under manner and method whereas last few years it was within each species rule.

The articulation and justification for a failure to punch or attach a carcass tag really has not changed. The "what if's" are endless and simply all cannot be addressed. It would be a good practice to educate all hunters contacted in the field and educate them on the new requirement. Please be reasonable in the pursuit of this violation, try to approach with each situation with the "intent" of the individual in mind. Documentation via a warning ticket or a regular court citation depends on the totality of the circumstances observed in the field, for each encounter please weighed each separately. Please have a few nuggets of articulation on a citation for failure to "properly punch a license" etc.... A simple, "he did not do it right," as per the letter of the rule lacks substance.

We are working to bring technology on board to tighten this up in the future, but for now work with those that need an education. Those that we can show intent to exceed the bag, we will proceed to charge. Also remind our customers the need to perform a harvest report in a timely manner, as when technology has caught up we will potentially be asking them to perform exactly that within a specific time period. Also please continue to complete "10-98" checks on all persons that have successfully tagged out, or even more importantly those that you know were unsuccessful in harvesting an animal during their hunt (road blocks last day of the hunt).

Please be positive and know we are working toward improvements. This is currently what we have in place and we need to make the best of it in a positive light, to our customers. Positive recommendations for improvements are greatly appreciated; move them through the appropriate chain. The new regulation is attached below if needed, keep up the good work!
